

MSc. Enxhi Hasani

Assistant - Lecturer at the
Department of General
Education and Professional
Development

CONTACTS

✉ koord.mjekesi@umb.edu.al

MSc. Enxhi Hasani

Assistant – Lecturer at the
Department of General
Education and Professional Development

BIOGRAPHY

MSc. Enxhi Hasani is a public health specialist and assistant lecturer. She graduated with distinction in both her Bachelor's and Master of Science degrees in Public Health from the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Medicine, Tirana.

She has participated in a wide range of professional training programs in Albania and abroad, including at Ondokuz Mayıs University in Samsun, Turkey, within the Department of Public Health.

She also served as Head of Health Inspections for Durrës County, where she was responsible for managing and preventing the further spread of the SARS-CoV-2 pandemic, among other duties. MSc. Hasani is actively involved with the Youth Act Center, a non-profit organization, where she has worked as a public health trainer on several projects. She has taken part in meetings organized by the World Health Organization (WHO) to discuss public health priorities and policy strategies for the Ministries of Health in Southeast European countries. She has also completed internships and training programs at the Ministry of Health and the Directorate of Public Health in Albania.

In addition, she is active in the media, promoting accurate and evidence-based health information as part of public health education initiatives. She is also the author of several scientific papers, reflecting her strong interest in academic research.

At Barleti University, MSc. Enxhi Hasani serves as an Assistant Lecturer and the Coordinator of the Faculty of Medical Sciences.